BONDS FOR ROADS AND SCHOOLS

THE STATE SHOULD ISSUE $1,000,000 FOR IMMEDIATE USE.

How the State Can Secure the Money Needed for Educational and Philanthropic Purposes and Quickly Secure Great Results in Schools and Roads. [From advance proofs of the North Carolina Journal of Education.]

Progressive cities and towns need permanent improvements beyond the capacity of their annual income, borrow from their richer selves of the future, issuing bonds and paying interest on them, believing the larger amount of money wisely expended at one time will enhance the value of property beyond the amount of annual interest. The same sound business policy is time-honored in all progressive states, and, as a rule, towns, cities and states are progressive and prosperous to the extent that they have wisely and economically applied this policy. The time has come in North Carolina when our immediate needs are much greater than can be supplied from our regular annual income, and the General Assembly should provide for the issue of bonds to meet them.

The Legislature now in session will be asked to make large additions to the State's hospitals, to the institutions for the deaf and dumb and the blind, to the Normal and Industrial College, the University, and the Colleges of Agricultural and Mechanical Arts; to provide for two or more normal schools, and a reformatory, or school for youthful criminals and incorrigibles. It should encourage the building of good school houses and good roads, and it must make more liberal appropriations to the public schools.

This cannot be done without more money, and bonds must be issued and sold if these just demands are to be met. Bonds bearing three per cent. interest and payable in fifty years can be sold at or above par. The annual interest on $1,000,000 at this rate would be only $30,000.

Three hundred and fifty thousand dollars would supply the immediate needs of the hospitals, the Agricultural and Mechanical Colleges, the University, and the Normal College, erect buildings for the new normal schools, and purchase and improve property for the reformatory. Two hundred and fifty thousand dollars should be used to encourage and aid in building good school houses in villages and rural districts, the State paying one-fourth the cost of building, when the community raised the additional three-fourths in some other manner than by taking the amount from its portion of the general school fund. Of course appropriations should be made only for houses well located and built after plans approved by the State Board of Education. It is probably safe to say that in less than three years school houses to the value of $1,000,000 will be built—the present value of all public school property in the State. Four hundred thousand dollars should be used to encourage and aid in the making of good roads, the State paying one-fourth of the cost of every mile of permanent road, carefully surveyed, graded and built according to the directions of the State Geologist, or a State Engineer, appointed for this purpose. In this way the $400,000 would result in an expenditure of $1,600,000 for good permanent roads, an incalculable source of profit to the State forevermore.

Necessary improvements at the hospitals, the schools for the blind and the deaf and dumb; the much needed increase of room and equipment at the institutions of higher learning, for the want of which their usefulness is greatly impaired; buildings and grounds for two or three normal schools, for that education and training of the public school teachers which must be provided before these schools can be greatly improved (The amount appropriated to this purpose would probably be duplicated by the towns in which the schools were located); a reformatory for youthful criminals; one million dollars in new school houses of approved structure in small towns, villages and country districts; one million six hundred thousand dollars in good roads, 1,000 miles radiating from the principal cities in the State—does any one doubt that these

TELEGRAPHIC BRIEFS.

The caucus of Republican Senators this morning decided not to take up the Nicaragua bill until England has had an opportunity to act upon the amendments to the Hay-Pauncefote treaty. This postpones the bill till next session.

Near Norway, Maine, four men were killed and several injured this morning by a collision of two freight trains.

The reports that the Queen is seriously indisposed are fully confirmed. Unless her health gets better the Duke of York will not go to Australia.

Boers Attack Colville's Force.

By Wire to The Telegram.

London, Jan. 18.—A despatch from Durban of today's date says that while Colville's column was en route from New Denmark to Valaklaagte it was attacked by a thousand Boers who attempted to cut off the baggage train, but were repulsed. The attack was a determined one. At the same time four hundred Boers charged the cavalry, which formed the rear guard and forced it to fall back. Four companies of rifles were concealed on ground prepared to receive Boers. The latter, however, retired.

Organization of a Preachers' Conference.

At the suggestion of Dr. S. B. Turrentine the Methodist Episcopal ministers of the city met in the West Market church study yesterday afternoon and organized a Preachers' Conference. Rev. Messrs. P. J. Carraway, J. R. Scroggs, L. W. Crawford, S. B. Turrentine, E. C. Glenn, H. K. Boyer, and L. B. Albertson were present.

Rev. J. R. Scroggs was elected President; Dr. L. W. Crawford Vice-President, and Rev. H. K. Boyer Secretary.

On motion it was determined that the conference shall meet on Wednesday afternoon following the 1st and 3rd Sundays in each month at 3 o'clock, continuing in session one hour and observing the following order:

- 1st. Open with prayer.
- 2nd. Business to be considered.
- 3rd. Social features.

A request from Dr. J. H. Weaver and ministers of other denominations of Asheville, soliciting the co-operation of the ministers of Greensboro in securing legislation for better Sabbath observance was read, and the conference unanimously agreed to aid in this effort.

On motion of Dr. Turrentine the secretary was instructed to request all the white ministers of Greensboro to meet in West Market Street church on Wednesday, January 30, 1901, at 3 p. m. for the purpose of organizing a Ministers' Interdenominational Association.

Dispensary Vote of Madison.

The town of Madison held a primary last Saturday on the question of their Dispensary, and when the vote was counted it was found that the antis were two ahead. The dispensary people, however, claimed that the antis voted about six negroes who were not entitled to ballot. Mr. Charles Pratt, a hardware merchant of that place, was here last night going to Raleigh in the interest of the anti movement. It is said that Mr. Pratt claims that his business has been damaged $5,000 worth since the establishment of the dispensary.

A Chimney on Fire.

An alarm of fire was turned in this afternoon from Box 42, located at Clegg's corner, near the Southern depot. The firemen responded with their usual alacrity but found no fire. A chimney in the residence of Mrs. Watlington was being burned out and some one noticing the flames turned the alarm in. With the wind blowing as it was today a fire would have been disastrous.

The Entertainment Tonight.

The management announce that the Academy will be warmed comfortably tonight and that everything will be in fine shape for the pleasure of the audience which will greet the Rooney boys. This attraction has been here before and won laurels. The seats have sold well, and a good house is assured.

TO ALLOW COUNTIES TO FARM.

BILL TO RELIEVE STATE OF PENITENTIARY EXPENSES.

Provides That Counties May Own and Operate Farms by Convicts and That Magistrates May Sentence to Those Farms for Terms Less Than Ten Years.

Special Dispatch to The Telegram.

Raleigh, Jan. 19.—An important bill was introduced in the House by Winston today. It allows the various counties to buy farms and work on them and on the public roads all convicts sentenced for terms under ten years. The products of such farms are to be devoted to the county's poor.

The justices of the peace are to be allowed to sentence to work on those farms. The bill provides that all farming operations by the State shall cease after this year.

The bill allowing the executor or administrator of a deceased trustee to foreclose a trust deed, passed.

BEST NOT TO PLAY AGAIN.

The Athletic Association of Guilford College Decides that Oak Ridge and Guilford Had Better Play Together no More.

Special to The Telegram.

Guilford College, Jan. 17.—At a meeting of the Athletic Association, this afternoon the following resolutions were adopted:

Whereas, It has been repeatedly shown that in our Athletic contests with Oak Ridge Institute it has been impossible for the games to have the same pleasant termination which has ever characterized our contests with other institutions; and

Whereas, We are aware that such an exhibition as was made in Greensboro on Thanksgiving day, November 29th, 1900, cannot fail to bring the game of football into public disrepute; Therefore be it resolved,

That we, the Athletic Association of Guilford College, give it as our judgment that it will be for the best interest of athletic sports in general, and of athletics at Guilford College in particular, for us to suspend all athletic relations with Oak Ridge Institute.

TO GET OFF LIGHT.

Nobody Expects the Three Paterson Murderers to Get the Full Sentence of the Law for Murder.

By Wire to The Telegram.

Paterson, N. J., Jan. 18.—Hardly any one in Paterson expects that the three men on trial here for murder will get the full penalty, but think they will be held for manslaughter, which carries imprisonment for ten years and a fine of one thousand dollars. Some lawyers, however, ventured the opinion that Judge Dixon would charge the jury to render a verdict of guilty or acquittal. Former Judge Hoffman began summing up for the prisoners this morning. He will be followed by public prosecutor Emley, after which Judge Dixon will charge the jury.

It is expected the case will be given to the jury at 4 o'clock. There is a feeling that McAlister may be convicted of murder in the first degree, and Death and Campbell of manslaughter. McAlister declares he is no scapegoat and says "we're all in this together."

MORGAN GETS THE COAL.

Now Has Entire Control of the Anthracite Output, and it is Announced that There Will be a Great Saving to the Consumer.

By Wire to The Telegram.

Philadelphia, Jan. 18.—Now that J. Pierpont Morgan has gained control of the entire anthracite coal output, the announcement may be made any moment that distribution will in the future be made through a single agency. It is estimated by so doing a saving of 25 cents a ton commission, and 25 cents a ton limiting retailers' profits will be secured. This would mean a total saving of 24 millions a year. As yet it is not decided what company will take the agency, but it is intimated that the chances lie between the Reading Coal Company, and the Iron Company and Temple Company. It is believed the latter has the best chances.

FURNITURE ASSOCIATION.

Next Meeting to be Held in High Point April 2nd—Tobacco Board of Trade.

High Point, Jan. 19.—Mrs. A. H. London and sister, Miss Connie Foushee, of Pittsboro, attended the Matton-Goodman wedding.

At the meeting of the State Furniture Association here Wednesday night, it was moved and seconded that a vote of thanks be extended to the proprietor of the Bellevue Hotel for courteous treatment during the sojourn of the association in this place. The next meeting of the association will be held here on April 2nd, 1901.

Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Hoffman, wealthy society people of New York city, are here for a few days. Mr. Hoffman is interested in the Kohinor Copper Mining Company located here, and is spending part of his time hunting.

Dr. and Mrs. Howard Wainright, Mr. D. Simmons, Mrs. Frances Ward and Mrs. Nelson, of New York, will arrive here in a day or so to spend a while.

Mr. L. Flagler, secretary and treasurer of the City of High Point, has resigned and Mr. A. J. Dodamead has been appointed in his place.

A tobacco board of trade has been organized here with the following officers: R. W. Watson, of Henderson, President, and W. R. Morris, of Burlington, Secretary.

Mrs. Ella Jones, of Chicago, is visiting her sister, Mrs. Anna F. Tomlinson.

Mr. A. K. Scarborough and family, of Rockingham, have moved to this place.

Mrs. Henri C. Turner is visiting relatives at Little Mill.

Mrs. William Romwell is quite sick.

Mr. W. G. Bradshaw, of the Globe Furniture Company, is at Grand Rapids, Michigan, on business.

Mr. Wm. A. Ring, the druggist, has made noticeable improvements on the interior of his store.

Mr. D. E. Allred, of Greensboro, and Miss Epsie Hendricks, of Archdale, were married here Wednesday by Rev. J. M. Hilliard at the officiating minister's home. It is reported a green affair.

DR. TYREE DECLINES.

Announces that He Will Remain in Durham.

Durham Herald.

Dr. W. C. Tyree, pastor of the First Baptist church, will not leave Durham. He has refused the call extended to him by the Washington Street Baptist church in Greensboro and will remain here for the present at least. This will be good news to his many friends and admirers here in Durham, who were fearful that he would accept the call.

The call was extended by the Washington Street Baptist church some time ago and when the matter was announced by Dr. Tyree from his pulpit it was the cause of regret. He went to Greensboro to look over the field and on last Sunday preached two sermons in the church that wanted him as pastor. He came back on Monday but said that no decision had been reached at that time. Last night at prayer meeting he made the hearts of his congregation glad by announcing to them that he had declined to remain here.

Dr. Tyree has a strong hold upon the people of Durham generally and upon his congregation in particular. As soon as he announced that there was possibility of him going to Greensboro there was a called conference of his church and at the meeting strong resolutions were passed asking him to remain here.

Some time ago Dr. Tyree was asked to accept the presidency of the Baptist Female University and on that occasion his congregation begged him to remain here, which he did after considering the matter for several days.

He is a fine preacher and a good man, and the numerous calls that he is receiving show that his popularity is spreading throughout the State. The announcement that he is to remain here will cause all to rejoice.

THE GAY WEEK IN RALEIGH

DESCRIBED WITH A FACILE PEN AND A POET'S FANCY.

The Throng on the Streets and at the Inauguration—The Grandeur of the March King's Band—The Legislature. Correspondence of The Telegram.

Raleigh, N. C., January 18.—During the perfect springlike weather of this week the Capital City of North Carolina never appeared at better advantage. Her beautiful streets with their busy thronging people presented an inspiring scene. To one standing at the head of Fayetteville street under the benignant and inspiring shadow of the Washington monument, with the capital square in the rear and the Confederate shaft and Vance statue to the right and the left, stationary and eternal, the street is a shifting miracle of life; thoughtful men with tread majestic, beautiful women with graceful motion, busy youth and little children are continually passing. The thronging troops by, the crowd becoming denser the farther down they go. Between the market house and the Yarbrough is a continual swarming, like bees in June in a clover orchard. At every instant somebody passes you of attraction, or fortune, or intellect—or want of it—or position in life or history—for what they have done and what they are. How like the bees, some industrious, with golden memories of worthy deeds, some lazy, conspicuous for the lack of them. Such is life, how like a fleeting show, but still how rare. Whether fertile or barren, all passes, art alone enduring, stays to us. The high toned gaze of the Washington and the hope of the Vance monument, will still remain when these are gone forever.

On the day of the inauguration the day was ideal and sunbeams kissed of the thoughtful brow and snowy head gentlemen and statesmen. Blue skies smiled and far away summer time ships of the upper deep, gave white salutes in passing. The Legislature occupied the seats in front of the portico where the inaugural ceremonies were solemnized which made Mr. Aycock Governor of North Carolina. The auguries for our future could never have been better. The incoming officers and the outgoing looked happy and handsome. The State Guard in the brilliancy of their attire lent beauty and charm to the occasion. What strong faces, what sincere and splendid eyes. North Carolina is a great State; unto such men as these her life is committed. Best hopes of all the earth in these are centered securely. How much better are these than great riches, much dearer than silver and gold.

The splendid troops of the A. & M. College did the State full credit and themselves justice; their College merited a compliment from ten thousand people by one hour's drill, by one matchless display of its blooming youth, such perfect command and self-control.

The inaugural reception at the Governor's Mansion between the hours of 8 and 11 p. m. was largely attended. The State officers received in the south parlor. Guests entered the north parlor, passed round through the beautifully decorated hall, where a strong band made it lively despite the pack and jam of people elegantly attired and in perfect good humor. Under ordinary occasions the crowd would have been too dense for endurance. A handshake with the new officers was the boon sought. To the passers slowly moving and being moved an inch at a time like an avalanche melting a drop at a time at the great folding doors of the south parlor, the stairway was an interesting diversion, like a picture or a bed of blooming pansies. Perhaps it was most like Jacob's ladder, that immortal ladder with angels ascending and descending in all the beautiful colors of an April rainbow. Among the flowers, and display of tints and shades were the familiar faces of some of our best and best looking people—Mr. and Mrs. F. D. Winston, Prof. Mimms, Prof. Whitsett, Mr. Henry A. London and others.

Every passing day brings with it some new attraction. On the 16th Sousa came with his band. Forty-eight men and two young women under perfect harmonious control, with the impulse of one organic living creature

THE WILD MAN RECOGNIZED.

Washington Post.

The issuance of a permit for the exhibition of an alleged "wild man" from Luzon has aroused the ire of merchants and residents of Seventh street northwest. The collection of boys, girls, pedestrians, and idlers in front of the place, and the stentorian announcements of the "howler" of the show is the grievance set forth. One of the complainants is Charles E. Slentz, of 1238 Seventh street, who sent a letter to the District Commissioners. Mr. Slentz called first upon Major Sylvester, who informed him a similar show had been closed in the same vicinity recently, and referred the complainant to the District Commissioners.

"Only 5 cents to see the original wild man from de Fillypeens," yelled the outside howler, when a Post reporter visited the scene of alleged trouble last night. Within the store-room is a lurid banner, recounting the capture of the nameless fierce man by the Second Kansas Regiment. Another banner shows a picture of the curious anthropological specimen, "attacking soldiers in the army transport."

At the back of the room on a platform, is an oblong cage with iron bars more than an inch thick, the alleged wild man lay—half-naked and shivering. His only wearing apparel was a piece of buffalo robe around his waist, a wig-like wealth of long, black hair, an ivory nose-ring, and clanking chains.

A short man with a square jaw stepped up when a crowd of eight had gathered at reduced prices and began to knock upon the side of the cage with a cane. The nameless individual in the cage moved lazily, shook his chains and arose. He stepped quickly from side to side, twisting his body, working his mouth, glaring at the people and trying to look fierce in general. One man suggested that the wild fellow had been drinking Mamie Taylors. Following a description of the capture and of the queer warlike implement which the prisoner brandished as best he could in chains and which the square-jawed man styled a "Tommy-shunter," the wild man made a super-human effort at being savage and tossed the "Tommy-shunter" against the side of his cage. It fell near a chunk of raw meat in the bottom of the cage. When the lecturer went outside to shout "half prices" some more, the wild man curled up on the floor of his cage, and the crowd was ushered out.

"Why dat looks like Jim Jackson, from Stuf Wash'ntin," said a tall, lanky negro. As the balance of the crowd sidled away discussing the "ferocity," a boy said, "I know who he is. It's Dorsey Foulz, dat the perlice want."

would be worth yearly to the State many times the $30,000 of annual interest? or that from this stimulus the property of the state would increase many millions before the end of the fifty years? Or does any one fear that this debt would be a burden to our children and their children when the untold resources of the State have been developed?

And thus relieved from the necessity of making appropriations for permanent improvements from its current income, the State would be able to make directly from its treasury the increased appropriations to the public schools demanded on every side and promised during the campaign.

The State is at a critical point in its educational and industrial development, and a little wise help now will produce large results in the near future. Let us have the bonds.

KEEPER TORN BY SAVAGE WOLVES.

Philadelphia Record.

In a desperate battle with two full-grown gray wolves, which was witnessed by a score of horrified visitors yesterday at the Zoological Garden, Keeper John Lover was badly mangled and only escaped with his life through the courageous efforts of his fellow-keepers. Lover was covered with blood when rescued from the angry animals, and was so weakened by his terrible fight that it was thought at first he was dead, but he was quickly revived at the German Hospital. After having his wounds dressed he pluckily insisted on returning to his duties at the garden, but became faint while talking, and had to be taken home.

Through excitement and loss of blood he is very weak, but the wounds themselves are not serious, though there is a possibility of blood poison setting in.

Keeper Lover has charge of all the wolves in the garden. The pair which attacked him are his especial pets, and he had been accustomed to going into their pen without hesitation. Early in the afternoon he noticed that Beauty, the female, was limping, and thinking she had gotten a splinter in her foot, he fearlessly went in to look at it. Dan, her mate, who is the biggest gray wolf in captivity, was at the other end of the inclosure, and apparently was taking no notice of the keeper's entry.

Lover stooped down to look at the sore foot, keeping an eye on the male, who was known to be treacherous. He had hardly bent over before the brute was on him like an avalanche.

HELD OTHER KEEPERS AT BAY.

Instinctively, Lover threw up his arm to ward off the attack, and the infuriated beast's teeth tore his whole sleeve away. The snarling of the animal aroused the other wolves, and they set up a chorus that drew the attention of the other keepers to their comrade's peril.

A rush was made by Head Keeper Manley and half a dozen others to the pen, but when they attempted to get in Beauty held them at bay. They finally forced her to retire, and, after an exciting struggle, got a noose over Dan's head and dragged him away from his victim. Lover's clothing was ripped to shreds in the fight, and he was bleeding from numerous lacerations, but, fortunately, had managed to keep the wolf from getting a good hold on his flesh.

made up in the March King's retinue. The music was beautiful, entrancing. Though people offered to buy seats at five dollars a piece, still a great number in the audience showed utter disregard for it. Whispering, late arrivals, and other disturbances made bad order. Little things stamp a man, showing what he is more plainly than the great things he tries to do. To make one's self offensive and infringing upon the rights of others shows lack of brains, of good breeding, of good training, bad taste, and utter disregard for themselves. There ought to be a law passed to prevent such infringement upon the rights of others.

A word about the legislators. At a glance in the House one sees a crowd of men young and old, bald heads and gray in a continual buzz and hum, like bees about a newly cut beehive, busily making laws, passing bills, making speeches, etc. Here is some good gubernatorial timber—Judge Connor, would grace the president's chair; Hon. Francis D. Winston, Judge Allen from Wayne, Mr. Rountree, and others. There are also some who might bear criticism, who, indeed, are likely to get a good deal in the course of a lifetime.

The younger Legislators—University men—seem to be holding their own among their peers. To these the State is looking and has always looked for her leaders. A little sketch of each and what they are doing will be prepared for The Telegram, perhaps.

Guilford and Greensboro people are justly proud of their newly installed State Auditor, the genial and handsome Dr. Dixon, who has spent some of the best years of his life as president of Greensboro Female College, and helped to make it one of the State's foremost schools for girls.

This important challenge is not only to the citizens of Greensboro, but to the entire civilized world. The public will be interested in the outcome of this investigation to prove the great merits of their already famous discovery. The offer made by the A. R. Bremer Company in their challenge above alluded to is a plainly worded one. They assert that their discovery, Coke Dandruff Cure, will positively cure the most stubborn and common of all troubles, dandruff and falling hair, which 90 per cent. of the people are annoyed with.

It is thought that the best possible way to publicly determine the merit of Coke Dandruff Cure is to give away to all those interested in this matter a sample bottle, and to have it done in such an open manner that none can question the honesty of the test.

A large number of samples have been sent to John B. Fariss' drug store, and will be given out to all those troubled with dandruff, falling hair, or any disease of the scalp. Apply tomorrow between 8 a. m. and 6 p. m. There will also be given to each applicant for a free sample a little book treating on troubles of the hair and scalp, which sets out in a clear, plain manner just such information as you want to know.

Bear in mind the free distribution at Fariss' drug store will end Saturday (tomorrow) at 6 p. m.

FRIDAY, JANUARY 18

SHOULD THE STATE RAISE MONEY BY MEANS OF BONDS?

Elsewhere we give, by courtesy of its editor, Prof. P. P. Claxton, an article from the advance proof sheets of the North Carolina Journal of Education advocating the issuing by the State of one million dollars in three per cent. fifty year bonds, for the purpose of further equipping the State's educational institutions and hospitals for the insane, the erection of a reformatory and the construction of improved roads and public schoolhouses, and for the temporary support of these objects.

We do not recollect to have ever seen this suggestion before, but it is certainly worthy of consideration. There could be no possible objections to raising money by State bonds for permanent improvements, such as the erection of hospitals, reformatory or educational buildings, where needed at the State's seats of higher education. This would be nothing more than the borrowing of money by individuals for investment in needed real estate. There might be serious objections raised to the spending of money for public school houses which, from the nature of the case, are more or less temporary, and for current expenses of any of the State's objects of care. At the present moment, however, when the need of a larger beginning in all these objects is very necessary to facilitate the awakening industrial and educational development of the State, it might be the height of business sagacity to so raise and expend so much as a million dollars.

We fully agree with the Journal that one million dollars would be an insignificant sum to such a State as North Carolina promises to be fifty years hence. Unquestionably this State bids fair to be one of the very richest in the Union, and one of the richest spots anywhere on the globe. Bonds are the modern way of accomplishing great undertakings. The pyramids were built doubtless by slave labor, war plunder and burdensome taxation. A modern pyramid would be constructed by the use of a large issue of bonds at a small rate of interest without burden to the people undertaking it. Counties, cities and towns now carry through, for them, pyramid-like undertakings, by issuing bonds which are easily paid.

The suggestion that the help extended communities for the construction of roads and school houses be dependent upon the effort of those communities would have the effect, as suggested, to bring out for investment in these permanent improvements very much more money than that invested by the State. For our part, we can see no danger in the proposition and very much good to be derived from it. But there is not any likelihood of its immediate adoption. We shall have to think over it at least a decade. The prejudice against the use of bonds by counties and towns is even yet very great.

The bosses and manipulators are on top. Quay, of Pennsylvania, and Clark, of Montana, may pair.—News and Observer.

Mr. Quay owes his election to Democrats; Mr. Clark after being turned down by the Senate, appealed to the people of his State and got re-elected.

Perhaps the West Point hazers have an idea that what they give each other is not near so bad as they will in their subsequent official careers be allowed to administer to the privates in the army.

The decision handed down by the Supreme Court of the United States, by which Neeley, the man who stole so much of the Cuban postal funds, is sent back to Cuba for trial, is in no way akin to the question at issue regarding Porto Rico and the Philippines. In this case the Court says that Cuba is foreign territory under the specific resolutions of Congress authorizing the war with Spain and upon the treaty of peace of 1898. Our occupation of the island is therefore clearly understood to be temporary. The other cases are not whether we shall continue to occupy Porto Rico and the Philippines, but whether they shall be governed by Congress subject to the limitations of the Constitution or merely according to its own will.

A bill similar to that introduced by Senator Aycock, of Wayne, to provide uniform text books at reasonable prices ought to pass.

Quay Democrats Expelled.

The Democratic senators and representatives at Harrisburg took severe but appropriate action yesterday with reference to the treachery of members of the party who directly aided in the organization of the senate and house by the election of Quay officials, and some of whom subsequently helped to elect Quay to the senatorship. Caucus resolutions were adopted practically expelling the following named legislators from the party:

Wm. J. Galvin, Harry B. Shutt, John B. Kain, L. S. Fake, Madison A. Garvin, S. H. Rothrock, A. H. Squier, O. R. Washburn.

As the business of the legislature shall proceed and organization be made complete the inducements to Democratic defection will be made more clearly apparent. Manifestly none of the men named can be rightfully appointed to represent the minority in any position of responsibility. They should be compelled to flock by themselves—unworthy of trust as Democrats and only deserving contempt at the hands of Republicans.

CHARGE FOR FRESH AIR.

Experiences of an American Family Who Were Travelling in Germany.

Many have been the doleful stories of travelers returned from Europe anent the extortionate charges imposed upon long suffering Americans in the lands across the Atlantic. And now comes a distinguished Chicagoan who declares that in Germany recently he was charged for fresh air, says the Chronicle.

With his wife and family he was journeying in a railway train. The air in the stuffy little compartment becoming stale, the wife of the Chicagoan asked him to communicate with the guard. In each compartment in European railway trains is a handle connected with a bell rope leading to the guard's cab. Near the handle is posted a notice warning passengers that the guard is not to be summoned except in desperate cases, such as murder, etc., under penalty.

The Chicagoan could not read German, but he knew that his wife wanted fresh air, so he gave the grip a lusty pull. The train, which was an express, slackened speed and finally came to a full stop. The guard and the engine driver rushed back excitedly, expecting to discover something very dire indeed. By virtue of signs the Chicagoan explained what he wanted. Thereat he was greeted with a storm of abuse and he was very near being threatened with personal violence. However, the guard and the engine driver returned to their posts and the train proceeded. When the Chicagoan and his party arrived at their destination he was met at the railway station by a jabbering mob of officials, who promptly haled him before an august functionary, who managed to inform him that his little gayety with the bell cord would cost him just 30 marks, which he must pay or go to prison. The Chicagoan took the former alternative.

CRIMES IN THE ARMY.

They Are Found to Be Fewer During Active Military Operations.

The tabulation of the cases of suicides and homicides which occurred in the army during the years 1893 and 1899 are compared in the annual report of Surgeon General Sternberg with the cases which occurred during the ten years, 1888-97. Contrary to the general anticipation, it is found that there were among the troops during the past two years relatively fewer homicides than during the years of the previous decade, and that the mean annual ratio of suicides per thousand men was about 2½ times greater during the decade of peaceful garrison life than during the recent period of active military service, says the Chicago Inter Ocean.

The average number of suicides per year in an army of 27,116, for the ten years, 1888-97, was 17. The ratio per thousand was .63 per cent. The strength of the army in 1898 is given at 147,795, the average number of suicides, 38; and the percentage per thousand, .26. The strength of the army in 1899 is given at 105,546, and the number of suicides at 30; ratio per thousand, .28 per cent.

During the ten years from 1888 to 1897 the homicides are given at 5.5 per cent., and the ratio per thousand, .20 per cent.; for 1898, the number of homicides at 19, and the ratio per thousand, .13 per cent.; for 1899 the number of homicides at 23, and the ratio per thousand, .22 per cent.

PATERNALISM IN GLASGOW.

How the Scotch Capital Provides for the Welfare of its Citizens.

It is when he is single that the Glasgow workman need spend little on the necessities of life. The corporation has devised enormous common lodging houses, at varying prices, but much cheaper than corresponding places in London. Private enterprise has followed the municipal example. The man can for 3½ to six pence a night obtain accommodation of the most comfortable kind. With a little cubicle to himself, and with abundant common rooms, everything he wants is at hand, says the London Mail. There are fires and cooking utensils for him, with attendants to clean up after he has done. He can buy raw food at cost price and cook it himself; or he can if he prefers, buy cooked stuff at low rates.

If the Glasgow workman is left a widower he can go to the municipal family home, where each of his children will be cared for by trained nurses, fed and tended while the father is earning his living, for one shilling and ten pence a week, in addition to the father's house rent of four shillings and two pence per week. If the man dies the wife can earn her living while finding food and shelter for herself and her children in the home at even lower rates.

Sea Currents and Migrations.

The French scientific journal La Nature calls attention to a recent report of the French consul at Hawaii which, it thinks, throws light on some problems of ethnography. Not long ago a little schooner, dismantled and with its rudder gone as the result of a tempest, was drifted by winds and ocean currents from Tahiti to Hawaii, after 81 days of helpless wandering. Hawaiian traditions declare that in ancient days people came from Tahiti, drifting with the currents, and settled Hawaii. The adventure of the dismantled schooner seems to prove the possibility of such a migration, and it is suggested that the currents of the Pacific, which have not yet been sufficiently studied, may throw much light on the distribution of the native races among the island groups.

Yew wanten buy thet heifer, Zeb? I don't believe yew can; I wouldn't sell thet heifer, sir, to any livin' man. No, sir, if yew should come an' lay a fifty in my hand I'd go an' shut the stable door an' let thet heifer stand. I'd let her stand right where she is till she is old an' gray. Afore I'd sell one side of her, thet's all I've got to say. Yew heerd I wanted to dispose? Yew must hev heerd it wrong; I'd buy a dozen like her, Zeb, if yew'd bring them along.

Of course I've got a lot of stock, more stock 'en what I need. An' I am short of stable room, an' some-what short of feed; But ez for sellin' that there beast I wouldn't, no siree! Let forty dollars come between thet heifer, Zeb, an' me. I am a one-price critter, Zeb, no man kin beat me down; She's with a heap more'n forty, Zeb, ask any man in town. Hi Hunker wants her purty bad, an' so does Deekin Hale, But ez I said before, of course, the heifer ain't for sale.

She's gentle an' she's good an' kind, an' slicker then an' eel; A child could milk her any time, she'd never raise a heel. She never hooks nor jumps the fence, she never runs away. An' comes around at milkin' time ez reg'lar ez the day. You'd orter see the milk she gives, it's yellar, thick an' sweet, An' ez for quantity, by gum, thet heifer can't be beat! Thet's junks of butter floatin' round inside the milkin' pail, An' speakin' of her butter, Zeb—but then, she ain't for sale.

Yew say yew're bound to hev her, Zeb? Yew want her purty bad? The slickest piece of cow-flesh, sir, a farmer ever had! Wuth thirty dollars ez she stands, an' not a dollar less; For I'm a one-price critter, Zeb, yew'll find thet out, I guess. Wuth thirty dollars ez she stands. I'll tell yew what I'll dew: I'll swap her now for twenty-five—'twixt me an' her an' yew. Jest twenty-five, no more or less, for I'm a one-price man. An' if yew'd want to swap her back, why durn it, Zeb, yew can. —Joe Cone, in N. Y. Sun.

ARCHDUCHESS' MANY NAMES.

Dispatch Announcing a Wedding That Sorely Puzzled a Cable Editor.

A cable dispatch sent from Vienna recently announced that Archduchess Maria Raineria had been married in great state to Duke Robert of Wurtemberg, says the New York Times.

A short while afterward there was wailing and gnashing of teeth in every newspaper office in New York. It is usual when a royal personage marries for a short note to be printed after the dispatch explaining his or her relationship to what are known as the "crowned heads."

As no preliminary news of the engagement of Archduchess "Maria Raineria" had been sent, the cable editors consulted the Almanach de Gotha. There are ten pages of that famous handbook devoted to the royal house of Austria.

After considerable labor the foreign expert in one office disinterred the name of Archduchess Maria Immaculata Raineria Josephine Ferdinande Theresia Leopoldine Antoinette Henrietta Francoise Caroline Heloise Januaria Christina Philomene Rosalie as being the nearest approach to that in the cable dispatch. Then his eye fell on the word "Immaculata" in brackets, which signifies that the lady is known to her intimate friends and relatives by that designation, and which would have been used in the dispatch. He tried again.

"Ah, I have it now," he thought. He had found Archduchess Marguerite Raineria Maria Antoinette Blanche Leopoldine Beatrice Anne Josephine Raphaelle Michelle Stanislaw Ignatie Hieronyma Camina Catherine Pietra Cecilia. But, alas! she was born in 1892, and could not be the princess just married.

"Guess they've got one name wrong," he thought, and looked through the Marias. The situation was not improved. He had his choice of Archduchess Anna Maria Theresia Ferdinande Josephine Adelaide Leopoldine Theresia Louisa Antoinette Francis Germana Henrietta Hedwiga Archduchess Marguerite Marie Albertine Alice Ferdinande Louise Antoinette Leopoldine Roberte Henrietta Theresia Edouardine and Archduchess Germana Maria Theresia Antoinette Leopoldine Alice Ferdinande Josephine Louise Caroline Ehrentraut Protia. Then he gave it up.

The real name of the archduchess who was married was Elisabeth. The correction came next day.

Aluminium for Soldering Rails.

Among the uses recently found for aluminium is the soldering of iron rails end to end in order to obtain a smooth, continuous track. Aluminium has the property of producing great heat in the act of combining with oxygen. The ends of the rails are placed together in a crucible filled with a mixture of aluminium and iron ore. The mixture being fired, an intense heat results, and the rails are firmly soldered together. This is said to be quite as efficacious as the electric method of soldering.—Science.

Gallant Little Hale Robbins

By Charles Adams.

MASTER HALE ROBBINS has nearly recovered from the wounds received last August in his remarkable battle with two white-headed eagles, accounts of which were published at the time in several Maine newspapers. But it makes one's heart ache to see the scars on the little fellow—great, blue, livid scars that go to the bone; eight on his face and scalp, eleven on his right arm and shoulder, six on the other arm, three down his back and several others—over 30 in all! This lad of ten is indeed "a battle-scarred veteran!" Some of these scars he will carry to his grave—eloquent evidence of the pluck with which he fought the big birds of prey.

But thanks to the boy's courage, his little sister Lois, in whose defense he made the fight, has but one light scar upon her cheek. The two or three red marks still visible on her hand and wrist, when contrasted with his wounds, show plainly how Hale took the aggressive and bore the brunt of the battle. The fight was fought to a finish. It was nearly an hour after the eagles first swooped down that a last lucky blow of the corn-cutter brought the big female to the ground.

A local taxidermist has mounted this eagle, and no ornithological collection within my knowledge possesses a more savage-looking specimen of Haliaeetus leucocephalus. The wings, from tip to tip, spread fully six feet six inches.

The assault was not wholly unprovoked, although the children were not to blame for it. By ill luck the birds had just been disturbed by the fall of one of their young from the nest in the great elm tree.

The Robbinses live in a clearing on the St. Croix river, in eastern Maine. From their house to the district school the road is a long one for little six-year-old Lois Robbins, and for a mile and a half or more it traverses the forest. But up to the morning of the encounter the child had not missed a day of the summer term.

Hale had been his sister's trusty guardian ever since she was large enough to toddle out-of-doors, and the child needed a protector there, for it is a rather wild sort of country, not wholly free from wild animals. The boy appears to have had no uncertain or wavering sense of his fraternal responsibility. Ever since he was seven years old he had undertaken "never to come home without little sister."

That morning they set off for school just before eight o'clock. In addition to their dinner-pail and two books, they carried a light woven bushel basket and an old bush-hook, or corn-cutter, as they called it, because their father sometimes used it for cutting rows of sweet corn in the garden. This tool consisted of about 15 inches cut from the point of a worn-out hay scythe, so inserted in a rude wooden handle that blade and handle stood at right angles with each other.

Grandma Hale had asked Hale to stop on his way home from school at a swale near the run, and cut a quantity of thoroughwort and snake-head, two herbs much prized by the old woman, which were then in flower, fit for gathering. The basket and cutting-hook were for this purpose, but the children were told not to take them to the schoolhouse, but to leave them at "Indian Jake's shanty," just beyond the swale. The Indian is their nearest neighbor, but at the time he happened to be away from home, guiding tourists at the lakes.

The eagle's nest was an object of constant interest to Hale, who often stopped to watch the birds come and go from the elm tree, which stands on a bluff overlooking the river. As the children came along that morning little Lois espied one of the eagles flying heavily to the tree, bearing a fish in its talons, taken perhaps from some fish-hawk on the neighboring lake. "Oh, look!" the child exclaimed, dropping the handle of the basket and pointing with her finger. "There's the old eagle going to the nest, and it's got a great thing in its feet!"

"It is going to feed the young ones," said Hale. "Now hark and you'll hear 'em scream!"

The eagle bore the fish to the big nest in the tree-top, and immediately the peculiar whistling cries of the young were heard.

"Oh, I hear 'em squeam!" cried Lois. "Don't they squeam high?"

It was a large fish, and perhaps life was not wholly extinct in it; when torn by the young beaks and talons it may have given a spasmodic flop. This was probably the reason that one of the small birds was dislodged from its place in the nest and fell. An instant later it caught by its talons on a small, low limb of the tree and hung there, swinging and screaming.

"One of 'em has tumbled out!" cried Hale and, boylike, he ran forward, followed by little Lois, both much excited; for the young bird was not more than 20 from the ground. Un-limb with its feet, hopping clumsily. Meantime the parent eagle, after peering down from the nest, swooped past it, then rose. Another smaller eagle, too, the male bird, probably, appeared on the scene and sailed around the tree.

The eagle's screams excited the children greatly, and they approached nearer, to get a better view. Several times the parent bird swooped close beside the suspended eaglet and rose as if to bear it aloft; but the youngster clung obstinately and screamed continuously, while little Lois cried aloud, from sympathy or excitement. The noise seemed to rouse the ire of the old bird and it swooped close to the heads of the children, snapping a wrathful, yellow beak, and uttering short, hoarse screams.

It came very close, flapping its great wings, and its savage eyes were so terrifying that Lois turned crying and ran back to where they had set down the bushel basket; but Hale caught up a stone and flung it high at the bird, shouting: "Keep off, old snapper-bill!"

Immediately the eagle swooped again, so near that its talons clutched the straw hat on the boy's head and one pinion brushed his face. Thereupon he seized a dry hemlock bough and, facing the bird, which rose no more than 30 or 40 feet in the air, struck at it as it swooped a third time. But the eagle descended with such force that Hale was knocked over; and this time one of its talons tore the brush from his hands, lacerating his right wrist.

Screaming fiercely, the bird rose, carrying the dry bough high in the air, while the boy, alarmed and hurt, ran backward to where little Lois stood. The other eagle swooped toward the children, but not close enough to strike with its claws.

Lois was now crying loudly and looking for some place to hide herself, but on the burnt land there is little cover.

While the female eagle was hovering above them, still holding the dry bough, the lad remembered the corn-cutter which was in the bushel basket along with the school-books and lunch-basket. He flourished it defiantly, shouting: "I'll cut your head off, old eagle!" and the morning sun may have cast a glint upward from the blade; for the female eagle, dropping the bough, swooped again more savagely than before.

If the boy had wavered, it would probably have proved fatal to one or both of the children. But Hale cried: "Stop that crying, Lo, and put the bushel basket over your head!" Bare-headed and bleeding himself, he gallantly faced the hovering bird and brandished the corn-cutter. Down it swooped on him again; but the little fellow, learning from experience, dodged aside and struck as the eagle shot past. He hit it with the point of the blade, and felt the sudden joy of striking home for the first time.

Enraged, the bird turned short in the air, screaming wildly, and dashed at him again. This time it fixed a talon in his back, knocking him off his feet, and dragging him till his clothing gave way. He fell hard upon some small loose stones, and for an instant lay prostrate—so frightening little Lois that she ran toward him, partly raising the basket off her head. One of the eagles swooped at the same moment, struck its claws into the basket, tearing it away, and wounding the child's face.

Her shriek of pain brought the dazed boy to his feet; but before he could strike, the eagle swooped again with great force. One claw buried itself in his upraised arm, and again he was dragged violently from his feet. The eagle, holding fast, with an angry scream, beat him hard with its wings, then sunk its hooked beak in his cheek.

Boy and bird fell and rolled over on the ground; but the boy grasped the bird's neck, and with his wounded arm dealt such blows as he could, and tore out handfuls of feathers until the eagle, struggling free from his grasp, rose a few feet. The relief was only for an instant, for the bird pounced down on him again, and yet again. The lad was thrown on his back, but kept on fighting, striking and kicking upward with both feet. The eagle, clutching his foot with its talons, dragged him for a number of yards, beating him terribly with its wings.

The blood was pouring down Hale's face and he could hardly see; but when he discerned the shadow of the bird and felt the wind of its swoop, he kicked upward and struck out with the bush-hook. Cuts on the eagle's legs and head show that some of these desperate, random blows were effective. Again and again the eagle fell upon him. Had the male bird proved itself as fierce as its mate, neither of the children could have escaped.

At length the eagle alighted on the ground near by. It was much hurt and could no longer keep the air; but it still strutted unsteadily forward to renew the attack, screaming vindictively. Weak from loss of blood, Hale could with difficulty get to his feet; but he used the corn-cutter as often as the bird approached within reach. After this manner they fought for half an hour, when the eagle beat a retreat, itself hardly able to walk, much less fly away. The other bird had flown back to the nest. Calling Lois to him and taking her hand, the lad now attempted to get up and go home with her, but found that he could not stand alone. Lois, who was not so badly hurt herself, was frightened at the terrible appearance of her brother, and at the strange way in which he kept falling down. She left him at length, and, running all the way home, told mother that the eagles had picked Hale's eyes out!—for Lois thought that he was blind. Mrs. Robbins rushed to the place and found Hale sitting very soberly on a blind indeed, but very weak and hardly able to move on account of the stiffening of his wounds. His mother was obliged to carry him much of the way home.

The doctor, who was sent for and saw the boy late the following evening, found it necessary in dressing his wounds to take not less than 30 stitches.

Mr. Robbins, the father, found the female eagle the next day, "mumping" in a fir thicket near the river; it was too nearly dead to offer much resistance.—Youth's Companion.

SOME of THE FASHIONS

8187—Ladies' Skirt with Plaited Founce, 22, 24, 26, 28, 30 inch waist.

LADIES' SKIRT WITH PLAITED FLOUNCE, NO. 8187.

There is at present a decided fancy for founce skirts, tunics and over-skirts being set aside for a while. The illustration shows a fashionable model developed in marine blue zibeline, trimmed with black velvet ribbon. The front gore is decorated with ribbon in panel effect, the edges of the banos being finished with small steel buttons. The circular portion fits smoothly around the waist and over the hips to the center back, where the fullness is arranged in an underlying plait at each side of the center closing. The skirt pattern is given full length, and the founce may be either applied over it or finished to form its lower portion, in which case the skirt proper is cut a seam width below the indicating line of perforations. The joining is hidden by a band of velvet ribbon, which also outlines the front gore.

The skirt may be made of broad or ladies' cloth, Venetian, camel's hair or cheviot, with braid, nasementerie or stitched bands of cloth for trimming. The front gore may be of the same fabric or constraining material as preferred.

To make the skirt in the medium size will require five and one-fourth yards of fifty-four inch material. The pattern, No. 8187, is cut in sizes for a 22, 24, 26, 28 and 30-inch waist measure.

Just as soon as the Christmas rush is over and the new year brings the usual advance showings of summer styles, both silk and cotton, one prominent idea possesses the feminine mind—shirt-waists!

The very earliest models for the summer of 1901 are already on view. A few of the varied ideas being here pictured. Thin, gauzy ideas are to be especially fashionable, more particularly in white. This group shows the general trend of the fashion, and now the bishop sleeve quite puffy at the wrist, with narrow band-like cuff, is to prevail. Lace and embroidery as garniture are apparently to have wide vogue on the fancy models.

A new wrinkle is to make them without the under-arm seam, all in one piece, with just shoulder seams and front opening. The silk one, in the center of the group, is most attractive with rows of hemstitching between its clustered tucks. Its sleeve is one of the newest Persian effects. Vest and stock are of white tucking. Alongside is a light-weight summer flannel shirt-waist for wear cool mornings at the sea-shore or mountains. The bishop sleeve is also a distinguishing feature of this one.

Coral is still the color.

English sailors with draped trimming are modish for morning wear.

Little black shoulder straps and long black gloves serve to set off Beauty when the rest of her attire is white.

For dress hats the toque placed rather squarely and the pompadour seem to be running about even.

Tiny, crinkled silken petals are the most effective edging for chiffon plaitings. Overdraped with handsome lace and there you are.

Tulle it to hold its own.

Broad bands of rich insertion drawn across the bodice at the bust line, and at a corresponding place on the arm are a quaint feature.

Chiffon embroideries are still wonders of beauty.

Industrious girls often run bits of lace with gold thread.

Despite some cries of warning, the touch of gold still holds our fancy.

Shall we ever escape from the buckle, the size of which is reminiscent of the key of the Bastille?

ROBBED THE GRAVE

A startling incident, of which Mrs. John Oliver, of Philadelphia, was the subject, is narrated by him as follows: 'I was in a most dreadful condition. My skin was almost yellow, eyes sunken, tongue coated, pain continually in back and sides; no appetite—gradually growing weaker day by day. Three physicians had given me up. Fortunately, a friend advised trying Electric Bitters; and to my great joy and surprise, the first bottle made a decided improvement. I continued their use for three weeks and am now a well man. I know they saved my life, and robbed the grave of another victim.' No one should fail to try them. Only 50 cents per bottle at C. E. Holton's drug store.

RHEUMATISM—CATARRH—DIS EASES CURED BY B. B. B.

It is the deep-seated, obstinate cases of catarrh and rheumatism that B. B. B. (Botanic Blood Balm) cures. It matters not what other treatments, doctors, sprays, liniments, medicated air blood purifiers, have failed to do. B. B. B. always promptly reaches the real cause and roots out and drives from the bones, joints, mucous membrane, and entire system the specific poison in the blood that causes rheumatism and catarrh. B. B. B. is the only remedy strong enough to do this and cure and so there can never be a return to the symptoms. Don't give up hope, but try B. B. B. (Botanic Blood Balm) or 3 Bs.

For sale by druggists and Howard Gardner, in Greensboro, at $1 per large bottle, or 6 large bottles (full treatment) $5. To prove our faith in B. B. B. we will send a trial bottle free to sufferers, so they may test the remedy at our expense. Address Blood Balm Co., Atlanta, Ga.

This season there is a large death rate among children from croup and lung troubles. Prompt action will save the little ones from these terrible diseases. We know of nothing so certain to give instant relief as One Minute Cough Cure. It can also be relied upon in grippe and all throat and lung troubles of adults. Pleasant to take. Howard Gardner.

A THOUSAND TONGUES.

Could not express the rapture of Annie E. Springer, of 1125 Howard St., Philadelphia, Pa. when she found that Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption had completely cured her of a hacking cough that for many years had made life a burden. All other remedies and doctors could give her no help, but she says of this Royal Cure—"It soon removed the pain in my chest and I can now sleep soundly, something I can scarcely remember doing before. I feel like sounding its praises throughout the Universe." So will every one who tries Dr. King's New Discovery for any trouble of the Throat, Chest or Lungs. Price 50c. and $1. Trial bottles free at C. E. Holton's drug store; every bottle guaranteed.

When threatened by pneumonia or any other lung trouble, prompt relief is necessary, as it is dangerous to delay. We would suggest that One Minute Cough Cure be taken as soon as indications of having taken cold are noticed. It cures quickly and its early use prevents consumption. Howard Gardner.

THAT THROBBING HEADACHE

Would quickly leave you, if you used Dr. King's New Life Pills. Thousands of sufferers have proved their matchless merit for Sick and Nervous Headaches. They make pure blood and strong nerves and build up your health. Easy to take. Try them. Only 25 cents. Money back if not cured. Sold at C. E. Holton's drug store.

The most soothing, healing and antiseptic application ever devised is DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve. It relieves at once and cures piles, sores, eczema and skin diseases. Beware of imitations. Howard Gardner.

NOT HEREDITARY

In the main, consumption is not hereditary; it is infectious. People are too afraid of heredity; better not think of the subject at all. Infection occurs continually.

Low vital force is hereditary, which gives consumption its chance. And infection plants it.

Between the two, the crop is a big one: about one-sixth of the human race, so far as is known.

We suppose it needn't be 5 per cent, if people would take fair care and Scott's emulsion of cod-liver oil.

The care saves life in all ways; the emulsion is specially aimed at the lungs, beside its general food-effect.

We'll send you a little to try, if you like. SCOTT & BOWNE, 409 Pearl street, New York.

Scrofula

THE OFFSPRING OF HEREDITARY BLOOD TAIN.

Scrofula is but a modified form of Blood Poison and Consumption. The parent who is tainted by either will see in the child the same disease manifesting itself in the form of swollen glands of the neck and throat, catarrh, weak eyes, offensive sores and abscesses and oftentimes white swelling—sure signs of Scrofula. There may be no external signs for a long time, for the disease develops slowly in some cases, but the poison is in the blood and will break out at the first favorable opportunity. S. S. S. cures this wasting, destructive disease by first purifying and building up the blood and stimulating and invigorating the whole system.

J. M. Seals, 115 Public Square, Nashville, Tenn., says: "Ten years ago my daughter fell and cut her forehead. From this wound the glands on the side of her face became swollen and burst. Some of the best doctors here and elsewhere attended her without any benefit. We decided to try S. S. S., and a few bottles cured her entirely."

SSS makes new and pure blood to nourish and strengthen the body, and is a positive and safe cure for Scrofula.

It overcomes all forms of blood poison, whether inherited or acquired, and no remedy so thoroughly and effectively cleanses the blood. If you have any blood trouble, or your child has inherited some blood taint, take S. S. S. and get the blood in good condition and prevent the disease doing further damage.

Send for our free book and write our physicians about your case. We make no charge whatever for medical advice. THE SWIFT SPECIFIC CO., ATLANTA, GA.

Texas Weather.

Yesterday's snow and today's stinging cold, following the preceding days of spring-like weather, is equal to Bob Taylor's description of Texas weather. Out in the Lone Star State, says the Governor, the weather is very changeable. One day an old darkey was driving along leisurely with his yoke of steers. The weather became so hot that one of the steers dropped and died from exhaustion. The old darkey thought he had as well save the hide of his faithful beast, since he could no longer work him. He began to skin him. Just as he did the weather began to change and turn cold. The freeze came on so fast that the other steer froze to death before the old darkey got the first one skinned—at least that's what Governor Bob said about it.

The news of today in today's Telegram.

The Place--The Bargains.

Johnson & Dorsett's of course is the place. They are selling out for the purpose of going out of business. It is a genuine sale and they do just as they promise. They do not expect to begin business again, and they are not trying to clean out old stock to make room for new.

The bargains? Oh, they are there, plenty of them. If you haven't been to see, but of course you have, everybody is going, ask your neighbor about them. They are too many to be enumerated here. Come and look over them. There is no doubt about your being well pleased and paid for your trouble.

THE WEATHER.

For North Carolina: Fair tonight and Saturday, colder in east portion tonight, northwest winds diminishing. Highest temperature, in Greensboro, for past 24 hours, ending eight o'clock this morning, 44; lowest 24, rainfall .26.

LOCAL ITEMS.

Services at the First Presbyterian church tonight at eight o'clock.

Several of the clothing stores are taking stock today and keeping their stores open for business at the same time.

The Daughters of the Confederacy will meet tomorrow afternoon at 4 o'clock, in the Merchants and Manufacturers' Club rooms.

Troxler Bros. have a curious looking biped which they purchased for a guinea, but which is almost as large as two ordinary guineas.

Mr. Orpheus Causey, who lives near Tabernacle, and Miss Viola King, were married yesterday at the residence of the bride's parents in Danville, Va.

Who does not know the power of prayer? Hear the old-time darkey's version of that power as rendered by Miss Etta Stockard at the league meeting next Monday evening at 8 o'clock.

The manager of Roney's boys writes Judge Howlett that he has been playing to very large houses in the South. At Lynchburg the aisles were packed. At Elizabeth City 500 advance tickets were sold.

Should Come Here.

Our Industrial and Immigration Association should see that the party of capitalists of Cincinnati to visit southern cities stop here.

The party, says the Charlotte Observer, will be in charge of Mr. D. A. Thompson and an officer of the Southern Railway, and will consist of twenty to thirty of the most representative citizens of Cincinnati and the Ohio Valley. The train will be a special and will consist of two Pullman cars and a dining car. The places to be visited are not yet determined upon, nor is the route definitely fixed, but it is contemplating leaving Cincinnati the night of February 6th; thence probably, to Knoxville, Asheville, Charlotte, Columbia, Charleston, Savannah, Atlanta, Chattanooga and Cincinnati. This itinerary is at present tentative only, and may be materially changed. The trip will occupy about ten days.

Dr. Tyree's Letter.

Mr. Lee H. Battle, chairman of the committee, yesterday afternoon received a letter from Dr. W. C. Tyree, a paragraph of which is as follows:

"After much prayerful consideration I have decided that I cannot accept the call extended me by your church. It was a very difficult matter for me to decide because the city of Greensboro and your church afford a very encouraging and tempting field for usefulness and it did seem that there were some providential indications in the unanimous desire of your good people for me to come. I was so anxious to know and to do God's will about it and as I had Him to make the path of duty plain. It finally appeared clear to me that in the present condition of my field here in Durham I ought not to leave."

Greensboro's Good Horses.

Perhaps our people did not know that the riding and driving horses of this city are noticed by strangers and their fine appearance remarked upon. A gentleman who has travelled all over the country has been in the city several days and remarks that the horses here present a better appearance than in any place of similar size he has seen. The gentleman's wife, who is a Kentuckian, says that they are up to even those of the Kentucky towns—Kentucky world-famed for its horses.

Asheville Court Adjourns.

A telegram received this morning from Judge Boyd, who is holding a special term of Federal Court in Asheville, states that he will get through today. His time this week has been occupied principally in hearing motions.

Judge Boyd and Deputy Marshall Logan will probably return to Greensboro tonight.

Little Miss Mary McAdoo Improving.

Mr. W. D. McAdoo has the welcome news that his little twelve-year-old daughter Mary, who is being treated for heart trouble by Dr. Robt. Bartholow of Philadelphia, is improving and the treatment making wonderful progress. Mrs. McAdoo is also in Philadelphia.
